

Does your Dog (or Kitty) have bad breath or built-up tarter on their teeth.
Imagine if you couldn't brush your teeth daily. What would that feel like? Yuk!
Do you have concern in putting your pet under Anesthesia to get their teeth cleaned?
Consider Anesthesia-free Dental Cleaning.

I recently tried anesthesia-free dental cleaning for the first time on two of my little bitty dogs (2 lb Tommy & 4 lb Ginger). I had been avoiding getting their teeth cleaned since I didn't want to put them under anesthesia. I didn't have high expectations they could get their little teeth cleaned with the anesthesia-free procedure - for they had quite a bit of tarter and bad breath. I was amazed and very pleased with the results

The fee for this type of Anesthesia-Free cleaning at a Vet Office is typically $165/per pet. Animal Dental Care (<http://www.animaldentalcare.info/faqs.cfm>) is going to give us a deep discount with the fee being only $95*/per pet (regardless of size). This will include: Complimentary exam by Dr. Peter Kvarnstrom of Tustana Animal Hospital (www.Tustana.com); a 7-step professional teeth cleaning process performed by highly trained dental technicians. During the examination the technician will chart any abnormalities or concerns regarding your pet's oral health. The next step is removing all of the plaque above and below the gum line. When they are finished removing the buildup, they will polish the teeth using fluoride-based pumice.

I'm coordinating a one-day Dental Clinic for all Pooch Sitter friends and clients. This will be on Nov 7th (which is a Sunday) at Tustana Animal Hospital in Tustin, CA. 1142 El Camino Real - Tustin, CA 92780

If you're interested (or any of your friends and family) – please email (Mayra@PoochSitter.com) or call me (714) 633-4821 with:

- * Your preference on AM, Afternoon, or Either appointment (I will schedule all with Animal Dental Care and get back to you on your specific time)
- * Number of Pets you'd like to reserve a spot for

Please reserve your spot soon, as we will fill up quickly. - Click here to RSVP

 Please note that Animal Dental Care will be donating $15 of each pet cleaning to German Shepherd Rescue of Orange County (www.GSROC.org).

Don't hesitate to contact me should you have any questions.

Mayra Victoria
Head Pooch Sitter
714-633-4821
www.PoochSitters.com